STATEMENT OF PURPOSE: The purpose of this ordinance is to expand the duties of the urban forest commission to include all natural resources on city land and to rename it the natural resources commission. The natural resources commission will retain all of the existing responsibilities of the urban forest commission and add broader responsibility to provide science-based guidance on the protection and enhancement of the ecological health of city owned and city managed lands and the regional ecosystems of which they are an integral part.

Specific additional responsibilities may include:

- Development of recommendations on how to protect, restore, and manage natural resources on city land.
- Solicitation of public input on the protection, restoration, and management of natural resources on city land.
- Guidance on the composition of the city's portfolio of green space and adding to or disposing of such properties.
- Guidance on the Duluth natural area program.

The ordinance characterizes the natural resources commission as a technical advisory body whose members should have broad experience and expertise in areas such as natural resources management, ecology, forestry, botany, water quality, invasive species and wildlife. Existing members of the urban forest commission have been invited to continue to serve on the natural resource commission without alteration to their terms.

Along with 2018 funding of full-time city forester and natural resource coordinator positions, creation of the natural resources commission represents the city's commitment to employ a more proactive, science-based, and public approach to the stewardship of the natural resources on city land.
